

What is the difference between projective and objective personality tests? What is a major objective personality test described in your textbook? What are the three types of scales in this test, and what is the purpose of each type of scale?