

Decluttering progress happens when clutter is regularly, and consistently, leaving your home.

-- Taylor Flanery

A photograph of a cluttered room, likely a bedroom or living area, with various items scattered around. In the foreground, there are several cardboard boxes, some of which are stacked. A blue bag is visible on the left, and a white fan is in the background. A teddy bear is sitting on a box in the middle ground. A lamp with a white shade is on the right. The room appears to be in the process of being decluttered or packed.
