About Sally Bag

Sally developed a passion for creating her own skincare after completing many sustainability courses after she fell pregnant with her son. She loves making everything from scratch and eventually family and friends encouraged her to develop her hobby into a business.

She's committed to reducing her environment footprint and sharing what she knows with others to empower people to make more ethical and sustainable choices when it comes to the things we put on our skin. All of this... plus the products she makes are delectable!
