

- To create an organization consisting of representatives of different socio-cultural groups in the community, to develop democratic leadership among people through their participation in community programs, and assign and delegate responsibilities.
- To bring about coordination between various individuals, groups and organizations associated with programs for the benefit of the community.