

:::Red Kiss

Journal Entry: Tue Dec 18, 2007, 5:21 PM

::: CSS related :::

Templates
Designs
FAQ

::: Personal :::

Art Account
Last.fm
Website

edit2:

Still i got no answer but i don't want to wait any longer because otherwise this journal will become completely useless. So i searched for other stock images yesterday. I still think that the original stock fits perfect, but i can't change that. In case i'll get permission for the other image i'll include both header images to the template.

New used stock is from Lisajen-stock

edit:

Because ~neebow-stock thinks that i used her stock image without respecting her rules i've put the template into the storage thingie until i have a final answer in this issue.

I'm sorry for that, but yeah... don't want any trouble. If you know a stock portrait that looks similar let me know and i'll change the template ☺ sigh

It's the first december and that means, that it's time to start the CSS calendar and show you all the beautiful templates that were made during the last time ☺

Was sometimes a bit hectic to do this as there are always so many things to do before christmas. Additional i had some difficulties with my own templates.. especially making the images. But finished them in time so the only thing i still have to do is coding the last templates for the calendar.

In this journal i'm going to feature my art-account ~Shyada. For the other templates i've made i will feature different people/themes.

Before i start with the feature some basic informations about the template.

As you can see it contains different boxes and the menu. Although the code itself is easy the overall CSS and HTML code might confuse those, that are not familiar with CSS. So if you wanna use that be sure that you have at least a bit experience with CSS. Otherwise it can happen, that the code get's messed up.

And i fixed the width of the journal content. First it was not, but decided that it looks better this way. You could change that but i'm not sure how this will affect the menu.

As i'm working on a RPG with friends since years i write a lot of descriptions, create towns/animals etc and do a lot of concept drawings. I really enjoy doing this as you can learn a lot of things.

So here some of the rpg-related drawings that i added to dA.

I also love to draw with pencils. Mainly i do sketches to train myself or to have a basic drawing for digital art, but sometimes i spend more time on working with pencils.

And as you can see, i should perhaps scan those old drawings again...

Get the CSS code here:

Now it's really time to go to bed! Good night... or whatever may fits to your timezone ☺