First Day of the Week

Sunday

Determines which day will be in the first column of the calendar

Show Weekends

Yes

This setting allows you to remove the weekends from your calendar views. This may be useful if you don't have events on weekends.

Page Settings

Week Mode

liquid: displays 4-6 weeks, fixed height

Determines the number of weeks displayed in a month view. Also determines each week's height.

"fixed" - The calendar will always be 6 weeks tall. The height will always be the same, as determined by the calendar height setting or the aspect ratio.

"liquid" - The calendar will have either 4, 5, or 6 weeks, depending on the month. The height of the weeks will stretch to fill the available height, as determined by the calendar height setting or the aspect ratio.

"variable" - The calendar will have either 4, 5, or 6 weeks, depending on the month. Each week will have the same constant height, meaning the calendar's height will change month-to-month.

Height

Will make the entire calendar (including header) a pixel height. Leave blank for an automagical height.

Enable Images in Calendar

No

The "Featured Image" box in the event editor handles the thumbnail image URLs for each event. After setting the "Enable Calendar images" option to "Yes" in the calendar settings, upload an event image in the built-in WordPress media uploader, then click the Insert into post button on the media uploader.

Enable Filters in Calendar

No

Filters allow users to filter events based on category and/or venue.

Enable Category Legend

No

Shows a legend of all the different event categories

Theme Settings

Enable CSS for Categories
