

T :: Lingo is an online encyclopedia product that efficiently compiles an organization's various types of internal information. It also allows the organization's members to participate in editing the encyclopedia.

Any member of the organization can create and edit the entries, which means anyone can become a contributor to organizational knowledge.

From people seeking knowledge to knowledge seeking people, Lingo allows knowledge to play a more valuable role in an organization's production and operations.

