

Denial codes let providers know why insurance companies are not able to accept their submitted claim