

- The gut feel that we use when assessing children is less reliable if a child has a complex medical problem.
- It is very difficult to spot an unwell child if you don't know how they look and behave when they are well.

