

Weak or Reused Password

As part of our security program, Western Digital monitors lists of compromised accounts to determine if any of our users' credentials are or have become publicly known. We have determined that your account and password is on a list of publicly known credentials and is no longer secure. To protect your account, we have locked your account until the password is changed.

To regain access to your account, you must change your password immediately. All login attempts will be blocked until you complete this action.
