He was an old man who fished alone in a small boat off the Gulf Stream and he had gone eighty-four days without taking a fish. The first forty days had been with his

But after forty days without a fish the parents had told the old man was now definitely an unlucky man. The first fish he caught was a salao, which is the form of unlucky, and the boy had gone at their orders in another boat which caught three good fish the first week. It made the boy sad to see the old man come in each day with his skiff empty and he always went down to help him carry either the coiled lines or desert.

Everything about him was old except his eyes and they were the same color as the sea and were cheerful and undefeated.

"Santiago," the boy said to him as they climbed the bank from where the skiff was
