Line Graphs

- A common type of chart which displays information as a series of data points connected by straight line segments to show trends

Temperatures in New York City