

Advertising banner announcing the event at the Sacré-Cœur Basilica: a prayer vigil for persecuted Christians and the lighting of the basilica in red to advocate for religious freedom.

The subtle design of the banner effectively conveys its essence, from the illustration to the essential information. The red elements not only stand out prominently against the dark background but also symbolize the concept of the event.

The use of a creative font for this banner adds visual interest and captures attention. It helps to create a unique and memorable design that aligns with the overall tone and theme of the event.
