Instructions:

Select a major industrial or commercial company based in the United States that is listed on one of the major stock exchanges in the United States. Each student should select a different company.

Avoid selecting an insurance company or a bank, because the financial ratios for these financial businesses are different.

The last page of your paper should be the bibliography of sources used.

Usually, the best place to start your paper is with the latest 10-K Report of your selected company.

Write a 7–8-page, double-spaced paper answering the questions below supported by calculations, operating, and financial information.

Questions:

What is the name of the company? What is its industry sector?

What are the operating risks of the company?

What is the financial risk of the company (the debt to total capitalization ratio)?

Does the company have any preferred stock?
