SOLAR STORM PREDICTED TONIGHT

A spectacular Astronomical light show has been confirmed by British Scientists and other leading experts that will be visible all around the Globe tonight. A Gaseous cloud will journey through our region of space - thought to be devoid of any asteroids and comets.

The Nuffield Radio Astronomy Laboratories which investigates cosmic rays, has played an important role in the discovery of the gas cloud. Professor John Wyardham who has heavily been involved with the tracking of the new phenomenon, has predicted that the interaction of gas, solar radiation and Earth's atmosphere will create an unprecedented 'solar storm' which will be visible to everyone around the globe. Billions are expected to view what has been described as 'A Once In A Lifetime Event'. Shop keepers around the country are already reporting huge sales of alcohol, camping equipment, binoculars, telescopes and night lights for outdoor use. Never before in recent history has such an event grabbed the public imagination. The UK is expected to come to a standstill during the night, many employers are already planning closures tomorrow due to the late night parties being held this evening. Emergency services have been put on alert, however, the party mood that seems to be gripping the Nation, it is highly unlikely they will be needed as they too are expected to view the free light show that will be in the heavens throughout the night.
