If you take your own fingerprints at home, make sure you DO NOT Finger Prints / DNA: "roll" your finger when pressing it on the paper. This can cause the ridges to distort. And don't use too much ink; practice on a piece of paper first!

If you are more comfortable, another option is to get a fingerprint card taken at any local police station/sheriff's office. It's often free but sometimes they charge a small fee.

I suggest keeping your Simply Preparedness kit in a safe place (or otherwise) and they belong to you. If your child is in high school or older and more responsible, you can let them have it to prove that some time.

ID Forms

In this kit, you will find adult, child and pet ID forms. I suggest putting all personal documents (ID, Birth certificate etc) in a sheet protector behind the corresponding ID Form.

You may also consider printing two and keeping one copy with you at all times, (or at least when out in busy public places). They contain important information authorities would need to start looking for a missing person.

Concerns About Security:

Having all this in one place creates a risk. But there is risk no matter what. If you don't have the folder at all there are risks. You have to weigh which risk is less scary to you. For me, I've decided the risk of not having it is scarier than the risks created by having it. My folder is very well hidden and does not call attention to itself.

A reader recently gave me two great suggestions that I'll pass onto you:

- (1) Disguise your binder as a "children's artwork" binder. I've provided an "artwork" cover for you in this printable if you would like to do this. Then, put all your documents between two pieces of children's art.
- (2) Create a "code" system for your financial information. One idea is to use a 10 letter phrase such as "LIGHT BREAD" for number L=0, I=1, G=2, H=3 etc) You can find other "code" ideas online.

Gather these documents and place them in your Simply Ready Binder. Put personal documents behind the ID Kit (in a plastic sleeve) of the family member they apply to. Create a section for everything else and store it there.
