Bill Evans first joined Miles Davis group at the age of 22 in 1980. He went on to record 6 records with Davis, as well as tour the world with him many times over a 4 year period. The stint with Davis was followed by 3 years with John McLaughlin and the Mahavishnu Orchestra and went on to tour and record 3 albums with them.

Since his tenure with Davis and McLaughlin, Bill has recorded and toured with Herbie Hancock, Lee Ritenour, Dave Grusin, Mick Jagger, to name just a few.

Bill has been touring almost exclusively with his own band since 1990, playing well over 100 concerts per year worldwide, and has produced, arranged and recorded 14 solo CDs as a leader. His 2001 release Soul Insider which featured Les McCann on vocals, received a Grammy nomination.

The follow up to Soul Insider was the highly acclaimed 2002 release Big Fun featuring McCann and Willie Nelson. Bill has been quoted as saying he has a "short attention span" and a "thirst for something new and inspiring".

Bill has played with Willie Nelson, Bruce Hornsby, John Scofield, Hiram Bullock, The Allman Brothers Band, Phil Lesh and countless others. Bills latest recording called Soulgrass is due out in September 2005 and is a blend of bluegrass, jazz, and Americana. It features the stellar cast of Bela Fleck on banjo, Sam Bush on mandolin, Jerry Douglass on Dobro, Bruce Hornsby on piano, Victor Wooten bass and Vinny Colaiuta on drums and percussion. Bill recorded the album in Nashville.

When not touring with his own band, Bill also co-leads a band called the "Bill Evans/Randy Brecker and Soulboop Band" who just released a live double album called Bill Evans/Randy Brecker and Soulboop Live.
