

A Strong Conclusion Should...

- reinforce that your claim has been proven
- give the essay a sense of completeness and closure
- leave an impression on the reader

Your conclusion should reflect why the reader should care about your topic. What is the significance of your claim? Why is it important to you? What information should the reader take away from this?