

2020's Full Moons

It is the Native tribes of the United States that traditionally kept track of the seasons by giving names to the full moon of the month. Each was named for a purpose, and have been adopted by many people to this day.

